The magazine is notable in that there are relatively few close-up images of women's genitals and there is a stronger full-body focus overall. The magazine degrades, dehumanises, and demeans the women particularly by presenting them as sexually insatiable and as a set of sexual orifices, but because of the more predominant full-body images the impact of such images is limited.

The magazine is classified as restricted to persons who have attained the age of 18 years because of the explicit depictions of sexual activity and the manner in which the magazine deals with issues relating to sexual activity.

The New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990 has been considered in classifying the magazine. The Classification Office is of the opinion that the classification of the magazine is a justifiable limit on the freedom of expression that is prescribed by law.
